Production and Reproduction of Religious Books (Kitabs) Printing:
A Case Study in Cianjur and Sukabumi, West Java, Indonesia

By:

(Student of Doctoral Programme of Faculty of Cultural Sciences of Padjadjaran
University (UNPAD) Bandung West Java, Indonesia/researcher of the Center for Religious Literature and Heritage of Ministry of Religious Affairs
Indonesia, asepfnr@afhs.com)

Abstract

This paper discusses the phenomenon of the spread of religious books (Kitabs) in West Java, especially in Sukabumi and Cianjur, which typically are produced and reproduced in Sunda language (known in Indonesian term as Pagan). Books (Kitabs) are produced and reproduced, and are still used to this day. This phenomenon can be called as a "living tradition". Data collection was conducted by tracing and recording religious books (Kitabs) that are produced and reproduced in a simple method, known as copy printing and traditional printing such as stencil, screen printing, and "shop printing". This paper aims to map those religious books (Kitabs) based on the types of works including original essays, quotations (duplik), translation, explanation (tuhah), or the other, and also based on the language and the script used. In addition, this paper also observes the institutions or individuals that are still reproducing the simple printed religious books (Kitabs) such as the printing business or pesantren that publish such books (Kitabs). At the end of this article, there are some suggestions in attempts to preserve those printed books (Kitabs) and the works.

Key words: Kitabs, traditional printing, Sunda, Pagan, West Java

1. Introduction

Mechanical reproduction has new characteristics. Each book has the same form in its appearance, and its typing letters are actually the same on every page, and different from the blatant variety which is available in those manuscripts. Uniformity arising is caused by the printing which strengthen the tendency towards the unity of a language community. Moreover, the people began to share in the sense of writing and *Some parts of the writing have been published in the "Jurnal Letter Enggaman" of the Ministry of Religious Affairs of the Republic of Indonesia, Vol. 8, No. 2, pp. 215-232, particularly on the books (Kitabs) from Cianjur (2020). Some other data are found from Da'arussalam in 2019. Thanks to Purnomo Dharma, a young researcher of the Centre of Religious Literature of the Ministry of Religious Affairs of the Republic of Indonesia, who has given the useful, preliminary information and also to Dr. Gusni Falsafah for his suggestions for the completion of this writing. I would like to thank to Dr. Tito Waluyo Marwan, Prof. Dr. I. Iqbal Hidayat, and Dr. Subana for their support as my promoters in the study, and to Dr. Eren Trudyta Sari, M. Sc., for her advice and guidance especially on the writing of the article. However, the writer alone takes all responsibility for the writing.
